Italy Is Warned to Sue for Peace Or Take Consequence

Prime Minister Churchill Issues Solemn Statement To New Government While Stockholm Reports Serious Rioting In Many Cities

VATICAN SAID TO HAVE STARTED NEGOTIATIONS

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Prime Minister Churchill solemnly warned Italy's new Premier Badoglio today to sue for peace—by unconditional surrender—or suffer the consequences of having the Italian kingdom "seared and scarred and blackened from one end to the other."

In Washington, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said "the appearance of things indicates probably some attempt at taking Italy out of the war," and he added:

"I think it will come in the reasonably near future."

Stockholm dispatches said reports from Rome indicated a popular belief in the Italian capital that one of the first acts of Badoglio's new regime would be a request for an armistice.

Italian citizens were reported demonstrating in the streets of Rome, Naples, Turin, Genoa and other cities with cries for peace and shouts of joy over the downfall of Premier Mussolini.

An unconfirmed report from Bern, Switzerland, said preliminary negotiations for an armistice had already been started at the Vatican.

Churchill told the house of commons in London, however, that so far he had received no peace overtures from Marshal Badoglio's government, and grimly he added that if Italy continues to fight alongside the Germans:

"From north and south, from sea and from air and by amphibious descents, we shall endeavor to bring the utmost rigor of war increasingly upon them."

Orders to this effect, he said, have been given to Allied commanders.

Hinting that the United Nations would accept surrender by the Badoglio regime, Churchill said:

"We certainly do not seek to reduce Italian life to a condition of chaos and anarchy and find ourselves without any authorities with whom to deal."

Churchill said he was in close personal touch with President Roosevelt over the developing situation, which apparently left even the high-powered German propaganda machine baffled for an explanation. Thus a Berlin broadcast declared vaguely:

"Those are badly advised who think that political events in Italy will cause the seismographs in Berlin to vibrate. Germany is resolved to withstand all ordeals x x x."

Berlin dispatches to Madrid indicated that Adolf Hitler was caught flat-footed by the fall of his satellite "savior," and was seeking to arrange a meeting with Duce's successor, 71-year-old Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

Swedish correspondents in Berlin said the Italian crisis hit "all German circles like a bombshell x x x the biggest shock of this war for the Germans x x x."

In Bern, Switzerland, reports persisted that Hitler still hoped to establish a defense line in northern Italy if the country's armed forces should collapse or surrender.

An Algiers broadcast said Badoglio had hurriedly recalled 22 Italian divisions from Axis-occupied Yugoslavia and Greece—(Turn to Page Nine)

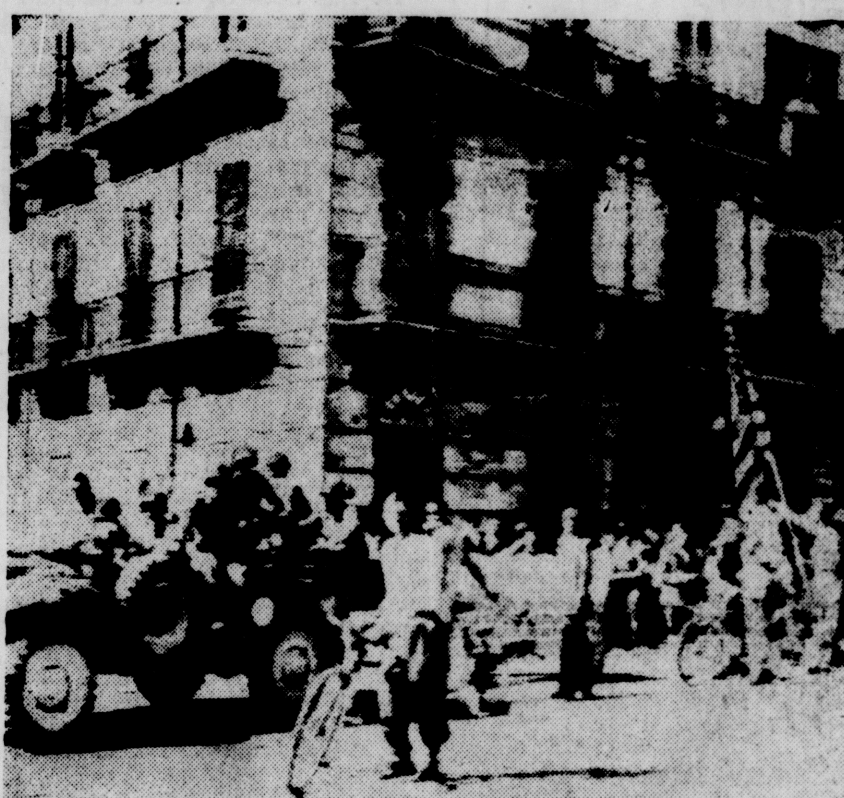

London, July 27—(P)—The Swiss radio said today that Benito Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo di Italia at Milan had been suppressed by the new government and had not appeared since Friday. The paper's plant previously was reported to have been burned by Italians demonstrating over Mussolini's ouster from office.

Relief Due for Motorists In East Soon, D. C. Speaker Says

Washington, July 27—(P)—There's hope of almost immediate relief for hapless A-card motorists in the eastern seaboard states, D. C. Speaker reported today.

Abolition of the pleasure driving ban in the 11 northeastern states and eight counties of West Virginia was held to be virtually assured within a fortnight, said the capital's unofficial authority.

Somewhat later, Speaker continued, the equalization plan which Secretary of the Interior Ickes said would be instituted will result in slight weekly allotment increases in the eastern area.

"Prentiss Brown's long-held opposition to the pleasure driving prohibition has won backers among higher authorities," Speaker explained. "The OPA director and like thinkers successfully argued that the little A-guy should be permitted to use his ration any way he sees fit."

Ickes, who also serves as petroleum administrator for war, fought against relaxing the pleasure driving ban, Speaker said, and only (Turn to Page Nine)

BY JACK BELL

Washington, July 27—(P)—A two-months old prediction by Winston Churchill—voiced behind the closed doors of the senate foreign relations committee—that Mussolini's regime would collapse fostered a belief in congressional circles today that the United Nations were so well informed that they are fully prepared for any peace bid that may come from Italy now.

Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind) told an interviewer that the Italian prime minister, reviewing the progress of the war to a select group after he had addressed congress on May 19, flatly forecast the collapse of the Mussolini government.

"Churchill did not go beyond that as I recall his statement," Van Nuys said. "He didn't predict what would happen after Mussolini was deposed but I have no doubt that he must have been giving those events some thought."

Senator Burton (R-Ohio) saw in the successful Sicilian campaign and the deposing of Mussolini a vindication of what he termed the Allied policy of "overwhelming attack."

Members of congress appeared to be in general accord that the Italians will have to surrender unconditionally, giving the United Nations access to their mainland military facilities, if they want peace now.

REDS TIGHTEN RING AROUND OREL BASTION

Rain Comes to Aid of Desperately Resisting Germans, Slowing Down Russian Advance

70 TOWNS CAPTURED

BY WILLIAM MCGAFFIN

Moscow, July 27—(P)—Rain came to the aid of desperately resisting Germans in the Orel sector and slowed down somewhat the powerful Russian advance, although intensive battles continued, the Russian army newspaper Red Star reported today.

Front line dispatches said the Germans threw in big forces of infantry and tanks in a grim effort to keep one important line open north of beleaguered Orel, the now all-but-surrounded German bastion. Two German infantry regiments with from 50 to 70 tanks managed to delay the Russians in this sector.

Elsewhere, the Russians said they maintained their advance. The strategy of the Soviet forces, which reported only a general advance of three to six miles, apparently was aimed at consolidating positions. None of the 70 freshly captured towns mentioned in an earlier communique were any nearer Orel than previously mentioned places.

Nor was there any indication that the Orel-Bryansk railway had been cut. The closest point the Russians have reached to that line, according to latest reports, is Studenkovo, five miles to the north.

The Germans counter-attacked all up and down the Orel front, launching 17 successive attacks in one narrow sector in a single day.

(Today's German communique gave only a few words to this front, saying that the brunt of the battle yesterday was in the Orel area. It added that German troops, supported by strong formations of aircraft, repulsed several enemy attempts to break through south, east and north of Orel after "fluctuating fighting.")

German losses were reported running high as the Nazis counter-attacked desperately to hold Orel and to relieve the pressure already being felt at Bryansk, an (Turn to Page Nine)

Warrants Are Being Served Upon Miners

Pittsburgh, July 27—(P)—United States marshals went into the coal field today with bench warrants for the arrest of 30 miners indicted by a federal grand jury that investigated recent work stoppages in government-operated pits.

The men—the first indicted under the anti-strike law—were charged with conspiring to bring about stoppages throughout the region "well-knowing that such mines were in possession of the United States and that their continuous operation was necessary for the successful prosecution of the war."

The two-week grand jury probe which resulted in the indictments yesterday started as the last of more than 18,000 miners returned to the pits following walkouts in defiance of a general back-to-work order by President John L. Lewis and the UMW policy committee.

Bonds for the defendants were set at $1,000 each. Conviction carries a maximum $5,000 fine or one year imprisonment.

Butter Will Cost Two More Points Per Pound Beginning August 1st; Shortening Less

Washington, July 27—(P)—Butter will cost the housewife two more points per pound beginning August 1, but shortening, lard, salad and cooking oils will cost one point less and no major changes will be made in meat values, the Office of Price Administration (OPA) announced today.

The new red point values will remain in effect through September 4. The two-point increase for butter brings the cost to ten points per pound. Margarine remains unchanged at four points.

In jumping the point cost of butter, OPA said it was attempting to bring consumer demands into line with the available supply. For several months, it was explained, civilian consumption of butter had exceeded allocations.

OPA predicted that the higher point cost of butter would stimulate the demand for other fats and oils. The new point value for lard is three points a pound, while shortening and salad and cooking oils are set at four points.

OPA removed two meat items from the rationed list. Fresh pork backbones and feet (bone in), which have cost one point per pound, become ration-free.

OPA removed two meat items ration-free because of the large supply and the fact that government agencies do not purchase them. Canned pigs feet, bone end, will cost one point for August, compared with two points during July.

While no changes were made in the more popular beef cuts, OPA predicted an increase of about ten per cent in the civilian supply.

The increase in the beef supply is expected to offset a decline in the supply of pork.

Here are the changes in red stamp values:

Fats, oils, and dairy products—lard, three points, down one. Shortening, four points, down one. Salad and cooking oils (one point or one pound), four points. Down one.

Butter—ten points, up two. Pork—fatbacks and clearpats, two points, down one. Feet (bone in) ration free, down one. Jowls, two points, ration free, down one. Pigs, regular, three points, down one. Bacon, plate and bowl squares three points, down one.

Ready-to-eat meats—Picnic of shoulder slices, 11 points (new item), pigs feet, bone end, one point, down one. Meats (in tin or glass containers), Meat spreads, five points, down one. Pigs feet (bone in) one point, down one. Beef—English cut roasts, nine points (new item).

The new two-item—picnic or shoulder slices and English cuts of beef—make little difference to the consumer. In the past, butchers have sold picnic slices and fixed point values in accordance with ham slice values, and the change merely fixes a specific value for the item. Similarly, English cuts of beef, a type of chuck roast, have cost the same under a different name, in establishing the English cut classification, OPA said it merely followed trade practices in certain areas.

The new table of point values for Kosher meats likewise makes no important changes in point values.

Large Number Petitions Are Filed By Local Candidates

Washington, July 27—(P)—The political future of Henry Agard Wallace, Iowa farmer and magazine editor who became vice president, was dug up today for a post-mortem only a short time after some capital speculation had laid it peacefully to rest.

Speakeading the spade-work was Senator Joe Guffey, Pennsylvania Democrat who called the presidential turn far ahead of the pack three times in a row.

That the Pittsburgh bachelor and other party stalwarts would support Mr. Roosevelt for another term was no surprise. But Guffey's statement to an interviewer yesterday was the first public congressional suggestion for Wallace to seek a second term.

And political observers paid particular heed to the fact that it came from the chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee—a post high in the party's inner organization.

'ESCAPE PORT' OBJECTIVE OF ALLIED DRIVE

Two Giant German 323-Mörsebergs Capable of Carrying 100 Soldiers Are Shot Down

RESISTANCE STIFFENS

BY REIMAN MORIN

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 27—(P)—American and Canadian troops, throwing themselves forward in the northeastern area of Sicily, have cut to pieces German counterattacks in the central sector and advanced over ground strewn with Axis dead, Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time a headquarters communique announced that Allied air forces had smashed a new enemy attempt to bring reinforcements on a large scale into Sicily by shooting down 21 huge German Junkers-52 transports in a battle over Messina strait.

Two giant German 323-Mörsebergs were shot down by RAF Beaufighters. These planes are capable of carrying more than 100 men, but official reports did not state whether they were filled with troops.

It was stated officially that German troops now have been identified all along the entire front in northeastern Sicily where they are attempting to build a dike across the tip of the island to block the invasion gates to Italy.

Enemy losses skyrocketed in the central and southern portions of the line and a number of German battalions lost half of their effective strength in attempts to batter back the relentless forward rush of the Allied troops who swept in a wheeling movement from central Sicily.

The Canadians bore the brunt of the operation and made gains against the heaviest opposition, and the Allied communique said the American advance, too, was proceeding "according to plan."

However, the Germans were managing to stiffen their resistance as the Americans drove into the harder core of the enemy's defense positions.

Medium bombers attacked railway communications at Marina Di Paola in southern Italy while light bombers and fighter-bombers continued the assault upon shipping in Sicilian harbors and on road communications on the island, the Allied communique said.

On the night of July 25-26 the port of Milazzo, Sicily, was attacked by medium bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft sank an enemy merchant vessel in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

In addition to the 21 JU-52's shot down in offensive sweeps over the Messina area on July 25, Allied fighters shot down 8 of the enemy escort planes.

Except for the central sector where Americans and Canadians beat back German counter-assaults and then advanced themselves, the battle of Sicily appeared to be passing through an interim period in which both sides were gathering strength for a showdown.

Activity on the Catania front where the Germans are fighting to hold the gateway to the Messina escape port was still confined to patrol action.

Plans Film Library In State Counties

Chairman Allan Gibson, of the County Council of Defense has been conferring with the county chairmen of this section relative to the formation of a library of sound films for the moving picture projectors owned in the various counties. State College and the State Council of Defense furnish numerous sound films for use in instructing various defense units and also some educational films along war lines. Under Mr. Gibson's plan each county would purchase a film of entertainment value and these would be so circulated that at a showing of the instructional films an entertainment film would also be shown. The idea is taking hold in good shape and the plan will undoubtedly be followed.

There is also some discussion relative to securing a large screen for use out of doors so that the projector and films could be taken to various parts of the county and shown at out of door meetings, picnics, etc., so that large numbers could learn of the work under way. This suggestion is meeting much favor and the showing of the pictures would undoubtedly attract large numbers who now do not have an opportunity to see the films.

WHIRLWIND FINISH

Junior Commandos who have been working this month to win the contest in the securing of waste fats are hustling to make their goal. Due to the fact that vaccination is on and it was hard to rally the little fellows there are not as many taking part in the drive as had been anticipated. However the boy or girl bringing the most slips to Colonel Elliott showing fats sold to a meat market will win the prize. There are three prizes, $5, $3 and $2 in war saving stamps. It is hoped the boys and girls will do some real work in the days remaining in the drive and will get in plenty of fats.

JUDGE IS SPEAKER

Judge Allison D. Wade addressed Rotary Club members at their weekly luncheon-meeting Monday at the YVCA activities building, outlining current methods of handling juvenile cases in the courts, special efforts being made to prevent establishment of a criminal record against youths and their detention in penitentiaries with seasoned criminals. Case histories were recited in illustration of the speaker's points and an extended discussion period brought out many additional facts and emphasized what a community can do to prevent an increase in juvenile delinquency.

Benson Had Fun Shooting At Germans

Warren friends of Lieut. E. W. Benson, formerly of this city where he was employed with one of the Finance Companies have read with some interest an article in Charley Danvers' column in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette relative to Benson. The young man is now in England with a flying squadron as a co-pilot on a big bomber plane.

Relative to Benson, whose home is in Kane, Danvers has the following:

"Lieutenant Benson is the son of Albertina and Charles Benson of Kane. He has red hair, a good-natured smile and blue eyes that seem to get a kick out of everything they see. Before enlisting in April, 1942, he was with a finance company in Warren. Previously he had taken civilian pilot training under Virgil S. King, of Warren, and he has a private pilot's license.

"He has been on three missions and would have more to his credit if his pilot had been a better bicyclist. 'He had an accident and broke a bone in his left hand,' Benson said. 'So I was left behind until he could fly again.'

"On his last mission, he was introduced to flak.

"It was like a great big puff of black smoke," he said. "You could hear it above the roar of the motors. It got the No. 3 motor on the lead ship of our formation. We were hit, too, but not seriously."

"The Kane flier's second mission was more exciting. It was a raid over northwest Germany and he was serving as tail gunner.

"We were flying through cloud formations that day," he said. "and a bunch of fighters came up to attack us. They tried to get the ships behind us. I had a lot of fun with those twin .50 calibre guns in the tail. It might have been different if those fighters had been coming right at us but they weren't. So I had a lot of fun shooting at them. I don't know how many rounds I shot."

"I asked the lieutenant if he hit any."

"Well, maybe," he answered. "But I know I didn't bring any down. All I know is I did a hell of a lot of shooting."

"I asked how he liked the English climate."

"Frankly," he laughed, "I'll take Kane."

KIWANIS SPEAKER

Rev. William B. McAlpin, pastor of Rocky Grove Presbyterian church in Franklin, will be guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday noon at the Hotel Carver. Rev. McAlpin, continuing his studies for doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Pittsburgh, is visiting Warren for the first time, but keen interest is manifest in his choice of topic, "The Nature of an Ideal". He is a member and officer of the Franklin Kiwanis Club.

CAPTURED TURTLES

Turtle soup is evidently being enjoyed by the crew of men working for the Osborne Company in making repairs to the Hickory street bridge. One of the men is adept at catching turtles and during the past few days has taken about a half dozen out of the mill pond. They were caught with hook and line, towed to the bank and captured. Four were taken on one evening recently. Muskrats are also numerous in the pond and several have been observed swimming about during the early evening hours.

Legion and Commandos Will Collect Phonograph Records

Aided by an active group of Junior Commando members of the American Legion and their auxiliary will conduct a short and intensive campaign to collect old phonograph records during the coming week end.

This is part of a nation wide campaign devised to collect as many old, cracked or damaged records as can be found so that they might be used to process new records which will be turned over to soldiers and sailors on posts of duty throughout the world.

Members of the Legion under Commander Mead and Vice Commander Stone met with Colonel J. R. Elliott and members of the Junior Commando organization at the Y. W. C. A. at noon yesterday and discussed plans whereby this active organization of zealous workers could materially aid in the collection of these old phonograph records. It was decided to conduct a house to house campaign in the blocks where Junior Commandos are known in an effort to acquaint the public with the need members of the American Legion have for these old, discarded records.

Members of the Junior Commandos will be armed with a card of introduction which will outline in terse terms the purpose of the drive for old records. Householders who wish to cooperate may have their records ready when the boys call. Or, the boys will return after their first call for any old records that a willing householder may collect. Estimates of old, broken and unused records now in the country is placed at well over 200,000,000.

Old records will be deposited at central points throughout the borough where members of the American Legion will make stated collections. Points listed for depositing old records are Carlson's Service Station in Glade, the Motor Lighthouse, George Irwin's store at 5th and Conewango, the American Legion Home and the Post Office at North Warren.

As a result of a similar campaign last year over 370,000 brand new records were distributed to American fighting men around the world. With the use of radio impossible in many active war zones soldiers and sailors alike have expressed the phonograph as their favorite amusement. An effort is being made to distribute at least 2,000,000 records this year.

The warlus gets plenty of company and lives in a herd, surrounded by all his family.

Information Issued On Canning Sugar

The following communication is received today from the local war price and ration board and is self-explanatory:

Through the kindness of a large number of volunteers, we have been issuing sugar certificates on approved applications. This has been convenient to all and we take this opportunity to thank them sincerely for their unstinting co-operation.

We cannot impose on these volunteers after the end of this month and to all those who have not yet secured their certificates, we suggest they go to the court house or to the following without delay:

Clare L. Gordon, Columbus; Ivan W. Hawkins, Bear Lake; Mrs. Elsa W. Juse, Sheffield; Wallace H. Lake, Youngsville; John A. Van Orsdale, Russell; James Pascarella, Corydon; Fritz A. Schoonover, Sugar Grove; Lynn W. Shipman, Kinzua; W. C. Tompsett, Tidoute; E. Whitcomb, Grand Valley; Donaldson Brothers, Spring Creek.

NOTICE is hereby given that The First and Final Account of E. H. Beshlin, Guardian of Elzadad Hazen, has filed his First and Final Account and same will be presented to the Court of Common Pleas for confirmation on July 28, 1943, at ten o'clock A. M. Addison White, Prothonotary. July 6-13-20-27-41

Pump Tanks Are Placed In Industries

Distribution of the hundreds of small hand operated pumps sent to Warren by the War Department is proceeding in good shape. So far the force of air wardens have not started their distribution but the pumps that are being placed in essential industries are being handled through the Fire Department. Firemen assemble these pumps and they are then distributed.

The tank on each pump is of five gallons capacity and the pump is operated from the top. A lug at the base of the tank affords a place to put the foot of the operator so that the tank will not slide around. A piece of plastic hose with a plastic nozzle is on each pump. They would prove invaluable in event of a small fire or in quenching a bomb until it could be handled.

In the essential industries about the city many of the tanks and pumps have been placed at advantageous spots.

When the air wardens get the assembling and distribution under way the pumps will be placed in key positions in almost every block where they will be available.

Between 800 and 1000 of the pumps and tanks have been received here and they will form a valuable adjunct to the fire fighting equipment of the city.

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 15
[T took some time finding. The streets were like mine shafts before the lights go on. We peered into two or three tequila joints that weren't the one I wanted. But we found it finally: the same place with the bar on the left and the door in the rear.

Two Mexican workmen were drinking as we entered. The bartender greeted us with a Buena as if he had never seen either of us in his life. And he hadn't. The Pablo with the dapper mustache had been succeeded by a stout man in a dirty apron. Customers and bartender gaped at the two of us.

"Lila," I said to her. "Tell him that we would like to go into the room in the rear. That we have an appointment with Senor Mirtilo."

She shook her head at me as if I were mad and then started a conversation in Spanish. The bartender shrugged, he looked at the ceiling, he waved his hands. She turned to me. "We better go. Everyone's staring."

"Try offering him a few pesos," I pulled out my wallet and offered a five peso note to the bartender. He scratched his head, he glanced at the customers and suddenly became eloquent.

"He says," she translated, "for you and me to go into the room, that he has never heard of Senor Mirtilo, but he will talk to us in there."

The three of us entered the rear room. I had been beaten in here by Johnson. The bartender wiped his hands on his apron. He was talking fast.

"What does he say?" I asked her. "He has never heard of a Senor Mirtilo."

"Describe Mirtilo's looks to him and see if that helps." She did so, and after a while translated. "He says that such a man does come here, but his name is Senor Ramos."

"Ask him where the bartender Pablo is."

After a few minutes she said, "He says that Pablo received a message this morning that his mother was sick and that Pablo has left the city."

Again I studied that bartender's square face. I was positive that this man knew nothing of Senor Ramos-Mirtilo, of the Gestapo, or of Pablo's true reason for leaving the city. Ask him if Pablo owns this place.

Again, I waited. "He says that Pablo is a trabajador, a working-man, like himself."

"Then who owns it?" "Senor Ramos owns this place," he says.

"Tell him that we will wait here. That we want to talk to Senor Ramos and perhaps he can find him."

THE bartender broke into swift speech and I learned that he didn't know where Senor Ramos lived; that the Senor was a great gentleman whom one could not disturb so late at night even if one knew where he lived.

I took out a second peso note which the bartender declined. I learned that he could not accept it unless he could be of service. That he would, if we assured him that it was a great emergency.

I spoke to Senor Ramos the next time he saw him, about us; that we could return in a few days or a week if we wanted to.

"Tell him that we can't wait," I said. "Tell him that we would like to speak to any one of Senor Ramos's friends." I described Johnson's looks to her. Loomis "Shoot the works at him," I said. Give him Hernandez.

Nervously I lit a cigarette, listening as they argued. After ten minutes she told me that the bartender had seen a tall American who came here to visit Senor Ramos. "Ask him if he can reach the American," the bartender replied that he couldn't. Furthermore, he had never seen a man here who resembled the German the senorita had informed him about. He had seen a Mexican, however, who was small and delicate as a girl. His name was Juan. "Ask him if he can reach Juan."

The answer was no, but a note that was a day's indenture pushed the second five peso note into the bartender's hand. "Tell him to try," I said to her. "Tell him to have Hernandez phone me at the Hotel Famoso. Give him my name and room number."

THAT same night after I had seen her to her room, I phoned. Fall. I gave him the names of Lathrop, Jenkins and Chevalier. I mentioned the hacienda whose name she couldn't recall, told him what I had been up to and then I called it a night.

The next day he phoned me. Jenkins had returned to London almost fifteen years ago. Chevalier's record was cloudy. As to Lathrop, he was sending a man north to the Lathrop Agency. That whole day was a blank. But by the day after, Hernandez was washed into the Hotel Famoso.

He was sitting in a big brown lobby chair like a tourist. I saw him as I came down for cigarettes. "Good morning," he said. "How are you?" I was too punch-drunk to react to his display of English. I realized as we walked to the automatic elevator that it would be stupid asking him about his pretended linguistic lack of a few days ago. That was of yesterday. Yesterday was gone with yesterday's equations. I was sure that Lila Taggard had something to do with Hernandez's appearance. Then I wasn't so sure. We got out on my floor. Hernandez smiled. "You okay, senor?"

"You played dumb to keep from talking to me over in that murder house," I said.

"Murder, senor? No, senor. No murder. No hombre, nobody murdered, senor. Nobody."

a little repelled. I recalled her touching reminiscences about Lathrop's ranch. The body I had seen was the corpse of the man made rich by Taggard. Lathrop had remembered his debt after many years.

"What happened to the body?" I said.

Hernando explained he had left the house and hidden himself almost a mile away. If the police were to come he would have run. He had waited until Johnson had returned. He had told Johnson what had happened. Johnson had slapped his face and then they had all gone into the house. They had put Senor Lathrop into a truck and driven off.

I QUESTIONED Hernandez when he finished, but he stuck to his story. It was a three dimensional story. I thought. (A) Hernandez had a grudge against Sam Taggard. (B) He had been bought up by the Gestapo after he had arrived in Mexico City. (C) He had attempted to deliver Sam Taggard to his new employers.

But something had gone wrong. Taggard had escaped. (When I questioned Hernandez on this point, he shrugged gloomily.)

(D) Lathrop had come to Mexico City from his ranch to help his old benefactor Sam Taggard. (There were quite a few missing facts in connection with the lawyer. Why, exactly, had Lathrop come to Mexico City? Or had he hoped to profit for the second time by helping Sam Taggard?)

Hernando had allowed me to escape. There was no doubt about that point. His reason being that his grudge was against Sam Taggard, and not against Lathrop or myself.

Again, I considered certain probabilities. Hernandez had admitted fear of Johnson. Which, realistically would be stronger? His fear of Johnson or his self-confessed impulse to save his life? According to his own account he had framed my escape, risking injury to himself. By coming to the Hotel Famoso he had again acted independently of Johnson. Why? I could discount his assumed patriotism. Or could I?

(Second of two articles on U. S. rubber problems.)

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — In the coming battle of rubber between synthetic and natural, if there were nothing more at stake than the development of a new industry which would further increase the world leadership and independence of the United States, without placing a heavy money burden on the people, there would be no argument.

Those battling for concentration on the development of natural rubber in the Western Hemisphere argue that such wouldn't be the case at all.

Their summary seems to add up to these contentions:

(1) That synthetic rubbers can never be produced as cheaply as natural and that high tariffs and direct subsidies will have to be established to protect the industry against natural rubber competition. The result: Joan Q. Taxpayer will get it in the neck again, while an infant industry grows to lusty manhood and its parents get rich.

(2) That the agricultural laboratory can produce in Latin America cheaper rubber and better strains than have been given the world thus far. Even natural rubber that will do the few things for which only synthetic now can be used.

(3) That hemispheric prosperity, by returning to Latin America the natural rubber industry which was thriving there before the British and Dutch took it to the South Pacific, will more than offset any sacrifices the United States will have to make in lending a helping hand and foregoing the development of another subsidized industry.

FOR a full exposition of the subject, I refer you to Dr. Earl N. Bressman, director of the Inter-American Institute of Agricultural Sciences, an agency sponsored by the Pan American Union and Nelson A. Rockefeller's Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Where Rubber Director William Jefferson may be singled out as the spokesman for the synthetic rubber proponents, then certainly Doctor Bressman is spokesman for the natural rubber backers in this country.

In his capacity as director of the Inter-American Institute, Doctor Bressman now has at his fingertips the whole of the rubber development program in the 15 Latin American countries with which the United States is now working.

HE can tell you why rubber is so adaptable to the small, one-family farms and how it can bring prosperity to great areas of our tropical hemisphere. He can explain why Hevea trees are the most practical over nearly all of the equatorial area; but he won't leave out Castilla, which is important to some sections of Mexico and the West Indies, or Cryptocodia, which may someday more than quadruple its present yield and produce a ton of rubber to the acre.

All of these factors go into the argument for natural rubber. War or peace, the battle will come to a head before very many years, because the race is on now to see whether natural rubber in substantial commercial quantities, at reasonable prices, can hit the American markets before synthetic in similar quantities and something like similar prices gets there.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jennifer Jones is wearing her wedding ring again. Her peasant dress and her nun's robes are stored back in the wardrobe department. She has finished "The Song of Bernadette," and she looks like Jennifer Jones once more.

That's something very nice to look like a slim, vivacious person with one of those cover girl complexions, sparkling eyes, a wide smile, and a cascade of wavy brown hair. Today she's wearing blue slacks, a carefree corduroy vest, and brown moccasins. Bernadette, between pictures, is at home.

Home is a big white house up in Bel-Air. Out on the lawn Jennifer's two husky boys, Bobby, aged three, and Michael, two, are tearing around in a ceaseless chase, each with a postcard in his mouth. They're playing mailman. Jennifer's husband, Robert Walker, is at the studio.

THIS is all very different from the day Jennifer started work on her first big picture. Jennifer was plenty nervous, an unknown entrusted with stardom in 20th's biggest picture.

She laughs about it today. "I'm still green," she says, "but not quite as green as I was then. At least I can understand some of the strange jargon they use on the sets. Mr. (Henry) King, the director, took away most of my nervousness. He planned my first day's acting to be nothing but scenes showing me in bed, asleep.

"By the time I had my first big scene with Vincent Price, everything didn't seem so strange. Now I can hardly believe the picture is finished. It's been only a few days, but it seems like years."

JENNIFER is working next for her other boss, David O. Selznick, in "Since You Went Away." That means the Robert Walkers will both be very busy, and that's how they want it.

"We're very lucky," says Jennifer. "If it were just one of us getting the breaks, neither of us could be happy."

A few years back, just married, Jennifer and Bob tried Hollywood together and got nowhere. They had met in dramatic school in New York, she a stage-struck girl from Oklahoma, he a would-be actor from Ogden, Utah. Signed for movie training by Selznick, Jennifer still had done only stock and little theater work when she was tested for "Bernadette." When she came out from New York, Bob was working in radio. With Jennifer gone, he began taking movie offers seriously, and surprised her one day by turning up in Hollywood with an M-G-M contract.

Jennifer arrived with ballyhoo last November, and had been here a month when Bob arrived—quietly. "And I didn't work until March," she says, "but Bob went right to work in 'Bataan.'"

The fans have discovered Bob in a big way. He's starring now in "See Here, Private Hargrove."

SUBJECT: A RECOMMENDATION...

FROM THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE U. S.

Supreme Court of the United States
Washington, D. C.

CHAMBERS OF,
THE CHIEF JUSTICE
1020 TWENTY-FOURTH STREET, N.W.

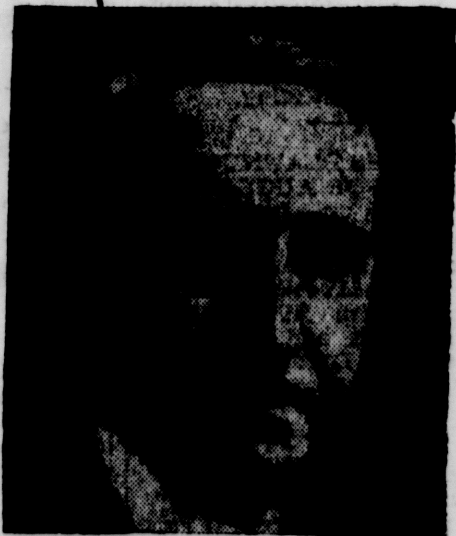

June 29, 1943

The Honorable
The Secretary of the Treasury
Washington, D. C.

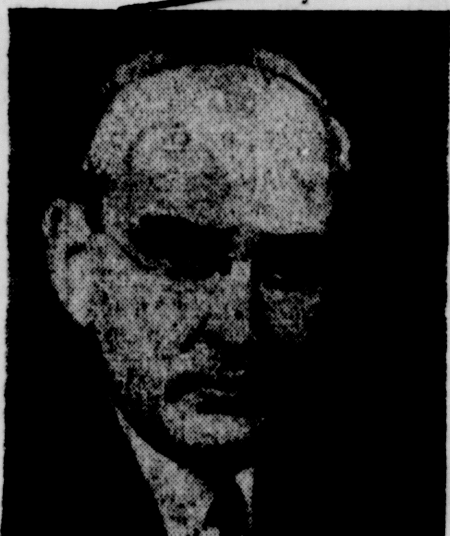

My dear Mr. Secretary:

Both you and the country are to be congratulated on the striking success of the Voluntary Payroll Savings Plan. Through it twenty-seven million wage earners are regularly investing in Government bonds more than $420,000,000 a month to meet the cost of the war. This is of primary importance as an aid to winning the war and as a safeguard against inflation. But it is also important that so many of our fellow citizens are reviving the forgotten art of saving from earnings. One way of securing freedom from want in the future is by saving something from the plenty of today.

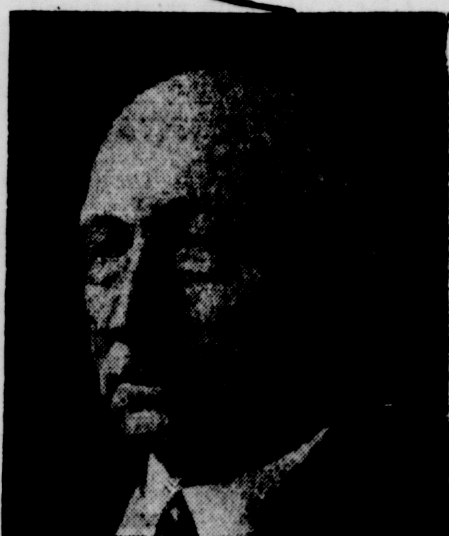

Yours sincerely,

JOINT COMMITTEE ON INTERNAL REVENUE TAXATION
Washington

June 29, 1943

Dear Mr. Secretary:

Thank you for sending us the description of your expanded payroll savings drive based on the theme "Figure It Out Yourself". The House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee are happy to support the present drive to increase the purchases of War Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

This plan has already achieved a fine record. The fact that twenty-seven million American workingmen and women are setting aside almost ten percent of every pay envelope and salary check speaks for itself. We agree with you, however, that public participation in the financing of this war should be and must be stepped up materially. Not only does the Treasury need added funds, but every dollar diverted from the purchasing stream into savings is a contribution to the fight against inflation. We wish you success in this campaign and we know that the American people will respond to this appeal as they have in the past.

Sincerely,

Walter F. George
Arthur H. Vandenberg
Robert L. Doughton
Harold Knutson

DUTCHER REALTY

No. these 2-year-old triplets aren't for sale. It's their house that is, and they have to move. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor, have been hunting all over Cleveland for another place to rent, but are running into the nationwide landlord taboo against children. "It's surprising how many people exclaim what they wouldn't give to have three lovely children like that in their home," says Mrs. O'Connor, whose husband is a war plant worker, "but just ask them to rent the upstairs of their two-family house to us and it's an entirely different story."

Mrs. Reynolds Returns After Training Trip

Mrs. Paul Reynolds, leader of Troop 2 at Grace Methodist church has returned from Camp Edith Macy, the national Girl Scout training school at Blair Cliff Manor, N. Y., where she has been attending a two-week training course in "Girl Scout Leadership in Wartime."

The whole program at Camp Edith Macy this summer is geared to wartime activity and only key people in Girl Scouting from local organizations are admitted to courses. Much interest is being shown in new trends and skills which Mrs. Reynolds will be able to impart to these Girl Scout workers in Warren County Girl Scouting.

The Grace church troop, which was started in April, has been extremely active since its inception. Mr. Reynolds is active in a Boy Scout troop at the same church.

In addition to the classes and instruction, Mrs. Reynolds reports that the presence of many refugees from war-torn countries made her two weeks a vital and unique experience.

A meeting of the Girl Scout leaders and council members of Warren County will be called by the commissioner, Mrs. E. W. Mackay, in the near future so that they may share the new ideas and techniques which Mrs. Reynolds will have brought back with her from her training session.

Overcrowded Buses Rouse Ire Of Patrons In This Section

Crowded buses are causing much complaint on the part of patrons for in spite of the oft asked question on "Is Your Journey Necessary" many still think they should travel. Officials of the railroads and buses are puzzled as to how to solve the problem as equipment is being used almost constantly and is fast wearing out.

The PUC has suspended the rules on overcrowding during the war and many feel that if this were not a fact the OPA would take some action to get additional buses.

Transportation to and from Sheffield is at the lowest ebb in history as in former years a short run train in the morning and evening over the Penny solved the problem. With the street cars this train was taken off and now only one bus per day serves Sheffield over the West Ridge line.

The complaint is general as the people of Jamestown who come to Warren to take trains east and west are also discommodated. Referring to the matter the Post-Journal of Jamestown has the following:

"The West Ridge system has been struggling for weeks under its curtailed schedules to get passengers to their destinations. Long distance buses for Buffalo and Pittsburgh frequently have pulled out with full loads of standing passengers. In many instances people have been left behind, particularly on week-ends."

"Company officials have reiterated that they were helpless to do anything about it as long as the mileage cut remains in force. They pointed out that not only are buses overcrowded but that revamped schedules have knocked out train connections at Warren. Arrivals on the Pennsylvania Railroad's afternoon train from the east have to stay in Warren all night and passengers from here taking the 8:15 p. m. east-bound train have to wait nearly four hours at Warren since the 6:15 p. m. run from Jamestown was discontinued."

"Commenting on the PSC action West Ridge officials said the state body might be in a position to put some pressure on ODT because it has suspended its overcrowding rule to meet the emergency. If the PSC decided to enforce the overcrowding rule the situation would be aggravated to a point where some action would have to be taken, they said."

Woman's Club Will Sponsor Recital By George W. Lott Soon

It will be of keen personal interest to many in the community to know that the Woman's Club will sponsor a genuine musical treat on August 24, presenting a former Warren musician, George W. Lott, in piano recital.

Proceeds from the evening's program, which will be termed a "Victory Benefit", will go to war relief through the several representative funds.

Mr. Lott needs no introduction to the Warren music public. Resident here practically all his lifetime, it will be recalled that his father, George W. Lott, was organist in the First Presbyterian church here for years and one of the community's prominent musicians. Also prominently identified with the music life of Warren was his grandfather, Margaret Y. McCalmont, his mother, Mrs. Janet Lott, and other members of the McCalmont family.

The young man, himself, is a graduate of the piano studio of Mrs. William M. Robertson of Warren and worked with Franklin Cannon of New York. He is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., and taught for the 1941-42 term at the Wilmington, Del., School of Music.

More recently, he has been working and continuing his musical studies in Boston, Mass.

Grand Slam in Tenth Keeps Dodgers in Second Place

Dramatic Punch Ends Extra Inning Game Between Pirates And the Brooklyn Visitors

BY TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A last second reprieve, in the form of Augie Galan's ninth-inning single that tied the score followed by Arky Vaughan's grand slam homer with the bases full in the tenth, kept the Brooklyn Dodgers from tumbling into third place in the National League yesterday.

After walloping the Dodgers three in a row at Forbes Field the Pittsburgh Pirates, thanks to Vince DiMaggio's two homers, led 6 to 5 going into the ninth. With two on and two out all that separated the Pirates from moving into second place was one strike. But with the count on him two and two Galan belted Max Butcher's next pitch for a single to score Dixie Walker from second base with the tying run.

This dramatic incident faded into comparative oblivion in the tenth when with three on and two out Vaughan socked a tremendous drive to deep center for an inside the park homer off relief pitcher Bill Brandt and a 10 to 6 Brooklyn triumph. Butcher had been yanked after Billy Herman singled to start the tenth.

Max Macon, Brooklyn's third pitcher who singled in both the ninth and tenth innings, then retired the Pirates in order to give the dodgers a 1½ game edge.

Brooklyn remained 8½ games out of first place, however, as the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals made it nine in a row by beating the Boston Braves, 6 to 3. Big Mort Cooper got off to a shaky start, but hurled hitless ball after the second inning to record his 14th victory of the season against five defeats.

In the American League the first place New York Yankees made only three hits off Jake Wade, but beat the Chicago White Sox anyway, 5 to 2. The victory stretched the Yanks' lead to eight games as the second place Detroit Tigers lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1.

Wade lost because of four White Sox errors and because the Yankees capitalized on eight bases on balls. Although he didn't make a hit Rolfe Hemsley drove in three of the Yanks' runs on two long out-field flies and a walk with the bases loaded. Bill Zuber hurled a four-hitter for the Yanks, permitting only two White Sox players to get on base after the fourth inning.

Jesse Flores, early season pitching sensation, won his first game since June 15, in beating Detroit for the A's. Stubby Overmire held the Mackmen to five hits but three of them went for extra bases. Flores tripled and scored the tying run in the sixth. Doubles by Johnny Welaj and Bobby Estaleha accounted for the winning run in the ninth.

Catcher Ray Mueller walloped two homers, good for six runs, as the Cincinnati Reds thumped the

Vets' Hospital Will Have A Golf Course

Phoenixville, July 27—(P)—Wounded American doughboys soon will be hastening their recovery on a nine-hole golf course tailored to fit their strength.

"We have all the equipment available," said Lieut. Fred Morganstern, special service officer at the army's vast Valley Forge general hospital. "If things move along as we hope we'll be playing on it this fall."

Joe Valentine, who has groomed the Lower Merion golf club for five national championships, is laying out the course, which originally was proposed by Leo Diegel, president of the Philadelphia Professional Golfers Association.

To conserve the strength of recuperating players, the course—built by army personnel—will be semi-miniature in size, with the 110-yard No. 3 hole the shortest.

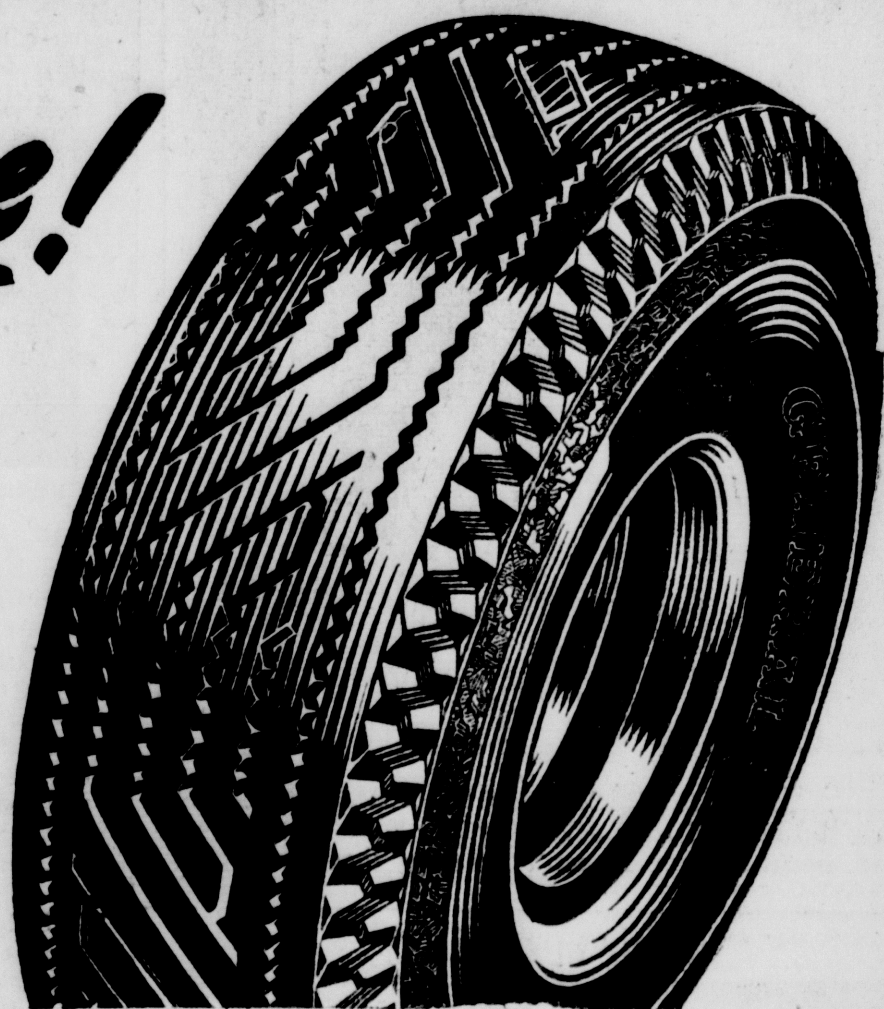

"At least 500 patients probably will be able to use the facilities," Lieut. Morganstern said. "For instance many orthopedic cases now taken out on hikes may recuperate by playing golf."

Weekly visits of eight or 10 pros from the area were promised by Diegel.

Episcopalians Drop Contest To St. Joseph

TEAM STANDINGS

St. Joseph	2	1	.666
Episcopal	2	1	.666
Grace Methodist	2	1	.666
First Methodist	1	1	.500
Baptist	0	3	.000

In a last minute spurt the St. Joseph ten in the Y. M. C. A. Episcopal Softball League took the Episcopal team across the coals to the tune of 8-3. The score is no indication of the type of ball played as up to the first of the ninth inning it stood 4 to 3 in St. Joe's favor. A couple of bad plays in this inning sealed the Trinity boys' doom.

Playing heads up ball for St. Joseph was George Lucia who covered third base like a professional. "Dick" Ponsell was handy with the hickory and his first time up cracked out a homer to score Salerno and himself.

For the Episcopalians Hammerbeck did a nice bit of catching while "Mike" Bleach in the pitching box was his usual casual self. Baldensperger held down third base making some nice stops of line drives.

This game threw the league into a three way tie for top position and after tonight it probably will be a four way tie as First Methodist takes on Baptist and this should be easy for the Methodist boys, although it would be foolish for them to go into this game thinking is as good as won. Baptist has been known to give some of the top teams some bad moments and is not a team to fool around with.

READING & WRITING

By Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

WHAT sort of world are we going to have after the war is over? That's a question on which many thinking people are dwelling these days. A most provocative book on this subject is "Prefaces to Peace," a volume containing the writings of five leading American statesmen, which the Book-of-the-Month Club is distributing as a dividend this summer.

HENRY A. WALLACE

The five statesmen are Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate in 1940; Henry A. Wallace, incumbent Vice-President of the United States; Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, and Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson, the former an ex-president, and the latter once Ambassador to Belgium.

"Prefaces to Peace" is a symposium on what these American leaders foresee for the post-war world. Included in the single volume are Mr. Willkie's "One World," the book that broke all modern publishing records; "The Problems of Lasting Peace," by Mr. Hoover and Mr. Gibson; Vice-President Wallace's "The Price of Free World Victory," adapted from his new book "The Century of the Common Man," and Mr. Welles' "Blueprint for Peace," adapted from "The World of the Four Freedoms."

Each of these works differs widely from the others on what plans the authors advocate for the establishment and maintenance of peace, once the war is over, but all of them are agreed on one point at least: that the planning for the post-war world must be undertaken now, even while the war is going on, otherwise, even though we win the war, quite possibly we may lose the peace.

In her book "The WAACs," which might be described as a book of etiquette for the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, Nancy Shea tells of the new recruit to the women's army who told her fellow Waacs she just loved to "get up for revelry!" The Waacs, according to Miss Shea, are already developing their own brand of army slang. A hope chest, for instance, is now nothing more than a Waac's foot locker; the student university is the post exchange; "Simon Legree" is the fond appellation bestowed upon a First Sergeant; and a "China Clipper" is a dishwasher on K.P. duty.

In his book "Mother Russia," Maurice Hindus tells many amazing stories of the activities of the Russians within Nazi-occupied territory. One of these concerns a woman named Fedosya Ivanovna, who lived in a small village deep in the heart of the Ukraine and who, in the days of peace, was much disliked by her neighbors because of her stern sense of discipline and her dominating nature. When the Germans came, Fedosya entertained five German officers in her home, and even her daughter-in-law protested at the lavish amount of vodka with which she plied them. But the last bottle she drew out from her cellar was not vodka—it was kerosene—and the next morning there were only charred remains of her home. The five officers, as well as their hostess, had perished in the flames.

Relief Due for Motorists in East Soon, Speaker Says

announced his plan to equalize rationing of gasoline in the eastern seaboard area and the states east of the Rockies after criticizing OPA administration of gasoline ration books.

Speaker said the proposed equalization of gasoline usage between the 17 eastern seaboard states, the 15 mid-west states and the six southwestern states (districts 1, 2 and 3, respectively) would necessarily result in some reduction of A-card values in the midwest and south. The present value of A-cards is one and one-half gallons a week in the east, four gallons in the other two districts.

Speaker said the impending changes in the gas rationing set-up east of the Rockies are actually a compromise between the Ickes and Brown schools of thought. Brown's ideas prevailed in the matter of pleasure driving, he reported, but Ickes' insistence that gas coupons had been loosely issued by local boards will result in re-examination of B-book and C-book validity in districts 1 and 2, to pare down to allowable district totals when equalization is instituted.

GUNSHOT FATALITY

Carbondale, July 27.—(P)—Thirteen-year-old David Novak, of Forest City, who died yesterday of a bullet wound in the abdomen, was shot accidentally during a scuffle with his brother Carl, 16, Forest City Police Chief Peter Slick said. A .32-caliber pistol discharged, he said, when Carl tried to wrest it from his brother, who found it in his father's trunk.

VISITED THIS COUNTY

In a syndicated feature published in many of the city papers last Sunday the tale of a murderer who slew four persons back in the days of 1840 was told. It was stated in the articles that he also stole a number of watches in this county and spent several months in the Warren county jail. Records have grown so musty with age to make a check on the lurid tale impossible as the present court house was not erected at that time and records prior to its erection are impossible to check.
